Government-Owned Feed Offered Texas Farmers at Low Cost

As a scorching sun continued to beat down on Texas, government-owned feed was offered to the drought-seared areas of the Southwest at prices ranging from 40 to 50 percent below cost.

The delivered prices are: Cottonseed pellets and meal, $35 ton, corn, $1 a bushel, wheat, $1.10 and oats, 50c.

These commodities, acquired under the farm and price support program, averaged $60.50 for cottonseed products, $1.61 for corn, $2.49 for wheat and $1 for oats.

Feed will be distributed through county relief committees, including a county agricultural agent, the chairman of the county Production and Marketing Administration committee, county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration, a prominent farmer or rancher and a local banker.

These committees will consider applications, establish eligibility and act as agents of the agricultural department in selling and collecting for the feed.

The department said the feeds will be sold only to eligible livestock farmers. It will be up to these farmers to mix their own livestock rations or arrange to have feed mills or other processors do it for them on whatever basis can be arranged.

NO ACCIDENTS

The local highway patrolmen stated that no accidents were reported in the Milam County area over the July 4 weekend.

Cotton Sprayer Part Of Freak Accident North of Thorndale

Two men were involved in a freak accident near Thorndale about 11:30 a. m. Monday.

Joe Escobedo, 19, of New Braunfels was driving a 1948 Ford gravel truck south on Farm Road 486 about two miles north of Thorndale. Oscar E. Theis of Thorndale was driving a farm tractor and cotton sprayer north on the same road.

According to a local highway patrolman, just as the vehicles came abreast of each other, one of the 10-foot sprayer arms dropped down from its folded position, knocking out the windshield of the gravel truck. The force of the blow and the flying glass momentarily blinded Escobedo, causing him to lose control of the truck. It skidded about 200 feet and turned over, badly damaged.

Despite the shattered glass and other damages to the truck, Escobedo was not injured.

No charges were filed.

Farm Safety Week To Be Observed Over Nation July 19-25

During the ten years that National Farm Safety Week has been observed, farm accidents have been reduced 20 percent. This reduction is a real achievement, says the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Committee, but add that farming remains a hazardous occupation. Some 15,000 farm people will lose their lives as a result of accidents during 1953 unless they practice safety in their daily living.

President Eisenhower in the Safety Week Proclamation, July 19-25, points out that last year more than a million and a quarter farm residents to cooperate in an all-out effort to make 1953 as accident-free as possible. "Farm to Live and Live to Farm" is the way he puts it.

According to the State Committee the immediate objective of the week is to arouse interest and increase participation in the community approach to the problem of safety. The long-time objective is to make rural residents so conscious of accidents and their causes that through their own efforts the agricultural industry can be made as safe as other industries of the nation.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson Offers Relief Plan For Texas Drought

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, joined by 14 of his colleagues, including Senator Price Daniel, has introduced a bill to authorize immediate aid to farmers and ranchers stricken by drought in Texas and other Southwestern States.

The measure, entitled "The Drought Disaster Relief Act of 1953," would authorize emergency loans in the affected areas. It would grant the President clear authority to rush seed, stock feed, urgently required farm equipment and other needed items to the drought disaster areas. The bill would authorize the appropriation of "such sums as may be necessary" to carry out the purposes of the Act.

Senator Johnson said he introduced the legislation to clear up any doubt as to the powers of the President to meet the emergency existing in drought-stricken farm areas.

"Unless action can be taken quickly, a whole section of our country is threatened with economic extinction," Senator Johnson said. "The whole nation would feel the effects if the rich agricultural production of the Southwest were eliminated."

The Senator is pressing for quick action on the bill, which was referred to the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Passenger Car And Diesel Truck Collide On U. S. Highway 79

A passenger car and a diesel truck collided east of Rockdale at 10 Monday night.

Manuel Auderson, 25, of Rockdale was driving a 1940 Dodge going west on U. S. Highway 79. According to a local highway patrolman, he had just crossed Sandy Creek bridge at 4.7 miles east of Rockdale, when, for no apparent reason, he pulled over on the left hand side of the roadway.

He struck the left side of a 1953 Auto-car truck and trailer, driven by Modesto Ortergon, 20, of Copeland. Estimated speed of both vehicles was 40-45 mph.

Little damage was done to the truck, loaded with milo, but its diesel tank was smashed allowing the fuel to run over the road. The left side of the Dodge was demolished.

Auderson, colored, is a construction worker.

The diesel truck, owned by M. C. Barker of Taylor, was on its way to Galveston.

Charges were filed.

SS Representative In Cameron July 14

A representative of the Social Security Administration will visit Cameron on July 14, 1953 at 1:00 p. m., according to James B. Marley, manager of the Austin office. He will be at the Dept. of Public Welfare at the time specified to give information and service in connection with all phases of the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance program.

The Austin office is particularly desirous of contacting those salaried and self-employed people who are thinking of retiring this year and claiming their benefits on the basis of their work and earnings since January 1, 1951. The office explains that technicalities in the law make it advisable for all such workers to obtain full information about their individual cases in order to satisfy themselves as to the most advantageous time for filing their application.

The case of the State of Texas vs. Sidney Bates Harle came to a finish early Wednesday morning when the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Harle was on trial for the burglary of the Milano Cafe in Milano on the night of April 5.

The whole case revolved around a Seeburg music box taken from the cafe that night.

During the trial Jim Miller, County Attorney from Milam County, introduced evidence to the effect that the stolen juke box was found in the establishment where Harle worked on the morning following the burglary with the name plate missing and the serial numbers filed off. All through the two-day procedure the big machine remained on display in the courtroom as Exhibit A.

The entire first day of the trial was taken up with the selection of the jury and the presentation of the State's case.

Jurors selected were: P. H. Perry, Jr., Joe Petruy, Bob Bailey, J. H. Angell, M. S. Fuqua, H. L. Colburn, Bryant McDonald, Jim Hawk, George Young, J. T. Todd, Paul A. Jenkins, and J. P. Harwell.

Testimony for the defense began at 9 a. m. Tuesday morning when Harle's 15-year-old daughter took the stand to testify in her father's behalf.

After two motions for an instructed verdict, in which the jury would have been required to say "not guilty," had been denied, the case was finally turned over to the jury at 8:40 p. m. They returned with their verdict at 2 a. m. the following morning.

Chuckles ran through the courtroom at the close of the trial as the jury was about to retire. They were preparing to take some of the exhibits with them to the jury room to study when one of the defense attorneys, E. A. Camp, demanded that, if any of the exhibits were taken, then all of them should go. This would have meant that the mammoth 100-record music machine would have to have been man-handled up two flights of stairs to the jury room. The motion was denied by District Judge O. D. Graham and the juke box remained in the courtroom.

Cover Crop Campaign

District supervisors in both Central Texas and Taylor Soil Conservation Districts are making plans for an intensive cover crop campaign this fall. Since Cameron is the trading center of cooperators in both districts, supervisors will be inviting business men, civic leaders, and organizations to take part in promoting this fall cover crop campaign.

On the land there is a need for a crop that will cover the surface and protect it from the wind, water, and sun. There is also a need for a crop that will add nitrogen, organic matter and humus to the soil. In the soils that take water slowly, there is need for a crop that will penetrate the plow-pan and open it up so that the water which falls can get into the soil to be stored for plant use. In the sand, a crop is needed which will slow the water down and hold more water in the root zone to be used by the growing crops.

Realizing the needs of their land, farmers in both the sand and blacklands have found that legumes are doing the job. District supervisors in both Taylor and Central Texas Soil Conservation Districts are ready to endorse and promote the findings of these farmers to others in the Districts.

COTTON OUTPUT

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson stated that private estimates of this year's cotton crops indicate a production of nearly 15,300,000 bales. That is above last year's production—almost 30 percent over the average annual output from 1941 to 1950.

Domestic and foreign consumption is estimated at 12,500,000 bales. The United States already has a carry-over of some five million bales.

Johnson assured that acreage allotments and marketing quotas for the 1954 cotton crop are almost certain.

TEXAN PARADE

By ROSS PHARES

HENEAGE FINCH WAS FANTASTIC GREENHORN

Heneage Finch came to Texas to forget. Just what he wanted to forget specifically is not certain, but it concerned wife trouble and a resulting divorce, and the matter of his family cutting his allowance to a mere $50,000 a year. Whatever the circumstances of his immigration to Big Spring it can be said for sure that he came well equipped to forget, and once there he set about it in earnest.

He had more money than anybody in West Texas had ever seen, and he had a capacity for hard liquor that amazed even the dry weather cowtown of Big Spring—about as favorable combination for forgetting as anyone could have recommended.

Heneage Finch was the Earl on while he put a jack under his car to fix a flat, I was aimin to get down there and help him change it but when I woke up after a short nap under a shade tree he was gone, and read where a big city real estate man was hoppin mad because a farmer in East Texas had predicted a depression worse than the one we had before was on the way.

"What does that farmer know about such things?" he demanded, claimin the farmer ought to be silenced, and since nobody in his audience apparently answered him, I will.

That farmer doesn't know a thing about such matters.

But I would like to hasten to add, I don't mind hastenin as long as it's just to add something and you can do it without leavin the shade, that that farmer however is not by himself. There's a lot of real estate men in the same boat, along with a lot of other people.

The way I see it, there ain't hardly anybody who knows what times are gonna be like next year or the year after. We got lots of experts who can tell pretasatisfactorily what happened last year or the year before or ten years ago, but when it comes to knowin how business is gonna be twelve months from now, most experts, when you corner em, are busy doin something else.

Personally, I'm in favor of free discussion. The man who goes around tellin himself times are gonna be good forever is about the same as the man in a depression who goes around sayin times are gonna be hard forever. Regardless of how it seems, some women ain't gonna talk forever, it ain't gonna rain forever or stay dry forever, but in some places and with some women it's gettin close to it.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

of Eylesford, a friend of many of the crowned heads of Europe and an intimate friend of the Prince of Wales, later Edward VII. The story goes that he returned from an extended absence to find his wife in a "situation" and his debts run into the millions. Whereupon he got a divorce and as much money as he could lay his hands on and set out for the New World with his two daughters. It is said that his plan was to accumulate a new estate for his daughters. But his most notable accumulation in Texas was a stack of whiskey bottles half as large as his barn.

The Earl arrived in Big Spring in the early 1880s. Nobody who witnessed the event ever forgot it. His Lordship arrived accompanied by his valet, a corps of servants, a pack of dogs, several carloads of baggage, and variety of guns that included everything from six-shooters to buffalo guns.

The Earl and his retinue repaired to the Cosmopolitan Hotel to find that no rooms were available. Thereupon he asked the proprietor: "How much do you want for this hotel?"

The proprietor named a price twice its value.

"I'll take it," the Earl replied without batting an eye.

If the Earl was disappointed at what he found at this remote corner of the world, he made no complaint. As long as his money held out he simply made up all possible deficiencies by buying the best of what he wanted. And that not only included the best hotel in town; he bought the meat market when he couldn't get the cut of meat he wanted. He promptly raised the standard of local steaks. He bought a blacksmith shop to "get work done like he wanted it." One night he decided it would be high fun to be a bartender in the town's main saloon. So he bought the saloon for $6,000. And to make sure he would have plenty to do that night, he invited everybody in town to come and have a drink, in fact, as many drinks as they wanted. One writer later commented that "there never has been so many headaches all at one time in Big Spring since." The next morning when the party was over he gave the saloon back to the original owner and went home.

The Earl bought a ranch of several sections north of town, but his heart was not in raising stock. He did some hunting. But his main pastime was drinking. It is reported that the Earl carried his whiskey well. Anyway he carried lots of it. As many as seventeen drinks were charged against him in a saloon at one sitting. It was routine for him to buy a gallon of whiskey every day. If he was having guests he bought a few bottles of gin extra.

The Earl had winning ways, which is another way of saying he had spending ways. He was a "queer duck" in the eyes of the West Texans, this high-horn Englishman, with his Cambridge accent and court manners; but as long as he would spill his liquor for the cowboys, they were ready to spill their blood for him. And some did, when some unappreciative stranger spoke uncomplimentary about their patron.

The Earl's ranchhouse was a far cry from the castles that he was accustomed to. It was a story and a half high, of unpainted boards with a wide hall running the full length of it, with so many guns that it bristled like an arsenal. Two acres of land were enclosed by a wire fence to keep the dogs in and the cattle out.

After about four years in Big Spring the Earl staked an stupendous Christmas party, the grandest of them all. One wonders if the Earl had a premonition that it was his going away party. He invited all his friends. And he had many; for possibly there has never been a more effective combination for winning friends than money and whiskey. It was a never-to-be-forgotten party, but the Earl never lived over it. He died a few days later, his memories at last no longer a burning flame that could be quenched only with liquor. It might seem that the Earl of Aylesford had consciously timed his demise—he was down to his last thousand dollars, barely enough to transport his remains back to his native England.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Bunt and sons of Beaumont visited his mother, Mrs. J. E. Bunt over the weekend.

"Last year dieldrin was the only insecticide I found that gave me complete control of boll weevil in mid and late season"

Signed: John Nigglazzo, Box 786, Hearne, Texas

Mr. NIGLIAZZO is just one of the many growers who find dieldrin the top insecticide for control of boll weevil in hot, windy areas.

Here's why:

Long residual action—Dieldrin is a natural for the Texas climate. It stays on the job many days after application, giving effective high-kill on cutworms and boll weevil.

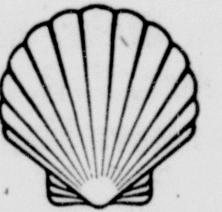

Easy to use—Dieldrin forms smooth-textured, free-flowing dusts. Or as a spray . . . it gives top-creaming emulsions . . . no nozzle clogging.

Economical—Dieldrin kills more weevils, helps produce more bales of cotton than any other insecticide. This is the best measure of insecticide economy.

Milam County CROP Committee Solicits Maize For Refugees

The Milam County CROP committee met at the courthouse on June 29, with Rev. John Solomon, temporary chairman, presiding.

The following officers were elected: E. H. Miller of Route 1, Burlington, county chairman; Rev. Albert Petrich of Ben Arnold, vice-chairman; Miss Barbara Aigner of Ben Arnold, secretary; Sam McDermott of Citizens Bank, treasurer; and Jesse Kirk, commodity chairman.

The committee was informed that there is an emergency call for the following commodities to feed starving refugees in Europe:

65 head dairy heifers, 2 carloads wheat, 4 carloads maize, 1 carload cocoa, 2 carloads cereal, 2 carloads corn.

These are to go on a ship which is to sail between August 1 and 10. Since none of the other commodities will be available in Milam County at this time, it was decided that maize will be solicited. A goal of one carload was set for Milam County. Other commodities may be turned in to be sold and converted into maize. Cash collected will also be used to purchase maize.

An appeal is made to all to share in this project to help feed some starving brother. For information on this project contact E. H. Miller, Route 1, Burlington, Texas.

Many Changes Made In Social Security Program Since 1937

"Major changes in the Social Security Act during recent years have not only provided more security for more people, but have also made it much easier to obtain this protection." This statement was made today by James B. Marley, manager of the Austin office of the Social Security Administration.

A surprising number are still totally uninformed as to what this program means to them. This probably applies more to those people who have been under the program the longest. They have taken the social security deductions from their paychecks for granted. The newly covered groups seem more aware of their status since they have only recently begun making contributions.

Many people still think of the program as it was when they were first covered back in 1937 and 1938. They are surprised, in many cases, to learn that there are benefits payable to survivors in death cases. Others think of the program as it operated prior to the 1950 amendments, not realizing that even since the recent date, the benefits have substantially increased, the eligibility requirements greatly modified, and new types of benefits provided.

Workers should get up-to-date information about what the social security program means to them and their families. They should know what the program provides to a man's family in the event of his death. They should know something about what they can expect as payments upon retiring after age 65.

Little Leaguers Show Improvement In Hardball Games

Little League ball players have been playing rousing games each Tuesday and Friday nights during the past weeks. The City Park field is used for these night softball games.

Baseball practice at the Lawless Green Field was well attended each evening last week and this week. Surpassing improvement has been noted in fielding and batting practice. Teams were chosen Thursday evening and a 5-minute game was played, resulting in a pitchers' duel. Bobby Williams and "Monk" Marek showed good control in pitching.

Games with Hutto, Taylor, and Rosebud are planned for this month. All of these towns have lighted fields where hardball can be played at night.

Parents of these boys are urged to attend these games and especially are they invited to come out to Lawless Green field in the afternoon after 6 p. m. and see their boys handle the hard ball. This is entirely a faster game than softball and will be enjoyed by some who do not care for softball.

Poultry Breeders' School and Clinic Will Be July 15-17

By J. D. Moore, County Agt.
The 9th Annual Poultry Breeders' School and Disease Clinic will be held at College Station, July 15, 16 and 17.

This important school is the direct result of a suggestion made by Leo Fuchs when Ted Martin of the Extension Service was working on a program to help poultry raisers. Fuchs has attended every meeting.

Some of the subjects up for discussion this year will be Sex Differences, Genetic and Commercial Effects of Inbreeding, Turkey Hatchability, Blood Spots, Interaction of Genetic Factors, to name only a few.

Friday will be the all important day—The Poultry Disease Clinic. It is sponsored jointly by the Department of Poultry Husbandry and School of Veterinary Medicine.

It is hoped poultry raisers will take advantage of the school, attending as many days as possible. A complete schedule is in the County Agent's office and may be checked by anyone wishing to attend only certain programs.

Farmers Advised To Cull Non-Layers To Keep Profits Up

Poultrymen who are in the egg producing business can keep profits up by following a rigid culling program through the summer months. W. J. Moore, poultry husbandman for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says cull the non-layers, keep egg production up and get the advantage of the favorable ratio between the price of eggs and feed.

Hens that go out of production now, he adds, will probably remain out until late fall or early winter and feeding them is a dead loss.

Remove the hens that show a shrunk, dried-up comb, yellow beak, new feathers, yellow shanks and vent. Also hens that lack vigor and spend their time loafing should be given a one-way trip to town. A good egg producer must eat plenty of feed and drink lots of water and she can't do this by loafing. Of course, says Moore, the poultryman must do his part by supplying the essentials needed by the hen.

Producers are reminded that hens, like humans, don't care to spend a lot of time in the hot sunshine hunting for feed and water. When they cut down on consumption, a drop in egg production is sure to follow.

And finally, says Moore, the poultryman who does a good job of culling will be paid well for his trouble and at the same time, will be following one of the important practices of efficient poultry farm management.

Enrollment under the Korean G. I. Bill of Rights more than doubled during the first four months of 1953. On May 1 of this year, 131,000 veterans were training under the law.

Mrs. Alice McClendon of Ben Arnold and Mrs. R. L. Terry of Cameron entered St. Edward Hospital July 6 for medical treatment.

Heart O' Texas Fair Sets Special "Days" For Cities, Clubs

Crowds—big crowds are predicted for the Heart O' Texas Fair in Waco on the basis of special days which already have been scheduled, declares M. D. Corbin, executive vice president of the exposition.

For example, opening day, Saturday, Sept. 26, will be 4-H Club Day and also Future Farmer and Future Homemakers Day. Several thousand members of these organizations are expected to attend.

Another day that is counted on to draw a great throng is Friday, Oct. 2, which will be School Children's Day. Fifty thousand tickets for free admission to the grounds will be distributed to the school children of not only McLennan County but in schools for a radius of approximately 60 miles.

Oct. 2 also will be the day named in honor of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls. Another special occasion will be Negro Achievement Day, which has been designated as Monday, Sept. 28. The exposition is counting on thousands of Negroes from the Heart O' Texas to attend on that day when events of special interest will be arranged.

Days will be named in honor of cities and counties. Special invitations have gone out to 100 cities and Corbin emphasizes that any community wishing a day, regardless of whether a letter of invitation was sent, is welcome. All that is necessary is for the Chamber of Commerce to write to the fair.

Each city on its day is asked to bring the high school band, a "Sweetheart" and large motorcade. There will be an out-door stage and each city can present singers, dancers and other entertainers.

Service clubs and fraternal organizations also are urged to have a special day.

Baylor University is counted on for a day with students, alumni and friends attending in large numbers.

Armed Forces Day will be Wednesday, Sept. 30 and a program of spectacular events is in the making.

The rodeo will be presented by Tommy Steiner of Austin, who is recognized as probably the outstanding figure among the younger rodeo producers. There will be a performance of the rodeo every day except Sept. 28, Negro Achievement Day when a special attraction will be presented. The rodeo will be held at night except on the two Sundays when the performance will be in the afternoon.

MEANS

The word SERVICE in its many uses has many meanings... but as applied to Texas Power & Light Company...

it means a million and a half people depending on electric power, day and night, for work or play;

it means countless sparkling lights brightening a busy city at night, or the glow of a single lamp by which to find the baby's bottle;

it means automatic refrigeration for preserving a hospital's supply of penicillin, or keeping a pint of ice cream ready to serve at dinner;

it means saving a life with a timely X-ray, or relieving an ache with a heating pad;

it means carefree, automatic cooking and easier housekeeping for the modern homemaker;

it means hearing and seeing the world's best entertainers right in a comfort-cooled home by the simple flick of a switch;

it means an elderly couple receiving their dividends on their investment in the Company... dividends that have come without delay each quarter for nearly half a century;

it means a factory may have three full work days of production during any 24 hours... more employment, bigger payrolls, better working conditions;

it means engineers and scientists devoting their lives to finding more and better ways to bring more comforts and benefits to more people;

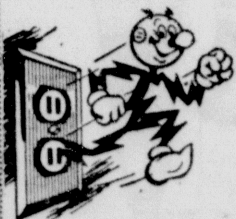

it means a crew of linemen working all night in sleet or rain to maintain electric service during and after a storm;

it means a friendly smile and courteous treatment for every customer by each employee of the company;

it means cooperation with electrical dealers to the end that their business may prosper and, in turn, more families may enjoy the benefits of modern electrical living;

it means an alert, civic-minded organization always working for the development of the community, and the welfare of the people... to bring in new industries, more families, new payrolls; to establish a sounder, more profitable agriculture... participating wholeheartedly in all civic projects benefiting the entire community.

TP&L SERVICE means all these things and many more. It is a service which helps to make a house into a home... a store a better place in which to shop... a factory a better place in which to work... a community a better place in which to live.

Cen-Tex Democratic Rally Attended By Milam Delegation

A delegation from Milam County attended the Central Texas Democratic Rally which was held July 2 in Waco.

Max McClaren, chairman of the group, F. A. Brock, Jess Brock, H. B. Pressly, and S. W. Mc-Claren, Jr. were among those who represented Milam County in the crowded Baylor Union Building.

Democratic National Chairman
Stephen A. Mitchell told the 450 assembled Cen-Tex Democrats that he will urge Adlai Stevenson to come to Texas, particularly Waco, in response to an invitation issued by Carlton
Smith, who presided at the rally.

Mitchell stated that the aim of the party is to put Sam Rayburn back in his place as Speaker of the House when they elect a Democratic Congress in 1954.

He said he had traveled 40,000 miles and talked with Democrats in 30 states. He states his opinion that Democrats who deserted the fold to vote for the Republicans are coming back to the party in droves.

"The Republican Elephant," Mitchell quipped, "is proving that it never forgets anything and never learns anything."

Mitchell arrived by airplane from Bryan Thursday afternoon, and dined with friends at the Roosevelt Hotel that evening.

Today Mitchell flies to Corpus Christi for a luncheon conference. He will fly to Odessa Saturday for a Fourth of July speech.

One Case of Malaria spent a fairly healthy week. Three cases each of measles, strep-ported, plus one case of gonorrhea and one of malaria.

The case of malaria was acquired outside the United States.

Our Terrible Thirst

If your town doesn't have to worry about its water supply, you're lucky. A lot of towns do.

Trouble is, some communities never dreamed that they might double and triple in size, that new industries would come to town, that citizens would use more water than ever before. We've reached the point where we use about 1100 gallons per person a day in the United States.

Yet why should water be short when 25 times our needs falls from the skies every year?

Unhappily, it doesn't always fall when and where we need it most. Many reservoirs were built with no idea that towns would grow so fast. And 75% of our communities rely on water from lakes and streams. Today many of these are polluted and require treatment before use.

When faced with a shortage, cities suddenly discover to their sorrow that new water sources take time to complete.

For years General Electric has contributed toward development of better and more efficient water-works equipment. This is not so unusual, since motors and other electric equipment are important in water systems, large or small.

Some of the things we've learned about water supply, and the related problem of water pollution, have been put together in motion pictures and booklets, prepared in cooperation with the U. S. Public Health Service. Any town fathers who are interested in what's available can write to General Electric, Room 123-2, Schenectady 5, N. Y.

Members of Marlow Church Honor Couple at Saturday Shower

Members of the Marlow Baptist Church honored Miss Jo Ann McLane with a miscellaneous shower June 27. Miss McLane is the bride-elect of Lt. Sherwood Watson McClaren III.

In the receiving line were Mrs. S. J. Henry, Mrs. Jack Thompson, Mrs. Max McClaren, Miss McLane, and Lt. McClaren. The honoree wore a becoming two-piece dress of green faille. Her corsage was of yellow gladioli.

Mrs. Thompson made the toast to the bride, and Mrs. McClaren gave the bridal prayer.

Mrs. Morris Coward, assisted by Mrs. George Jones, directed the guests in a number of games.

At the conclusion of the games, the couple was led to the attractively decorated table which held two large white boxes of presents. On each box was the legend "Jo Ann and Watty, July 11, 1953".

After the many gifts were opened, refreshments were served. The table, covered with a white cloth, held arrangements of crepe myrtle and vari-colored zinnias.
